

Harlem Writers Guild

Free Writing Workshop Series

space is limited, register now! Call 860.695.6324

Four Saturday Sessions from 2-4 p.m.

Sept. 20 & 27, 2003 Oct. 4 & 11, 2003

Locations: Albany and Campfield Branch Libraries

Sessions will cover the fundamentals of short story writing and assembling the tools for individual attempts at writing full length works of fiction and creative non-fiction.

The goal of the workshop is for each participant to produce or start a short story suitable for publication in an anthology that will be edited by the workshop leader and published by the guild's Imprint "The Harlem Writers Guild Press".

Albany Branch workshop leader * William Banks, Jr.

Author, Educator and Executive Director of the Harlem Writers Guild in New York City since 1989, Bill Banks is the producer and host of IN OUR OWN WORDS, the only regularly scheduled television program dealing exclusively with black writing and black writers in America. Over 400 authors have been presented on this program between 1990 and 2003.

Campfield Branch workshop leader * Grace Edwards

Guild member and author of the "Mali Anderson Mystery Series" that includes such novels as: A Toast Before Dying, If I Should Die and No time to Die.

www.hplct.org

This series is a Telling Passages program of the Hartford Public Library and is supported by the National Endowment for the Humanities.